STEPS TO PETITION FOR A NON-APPROVED STUDY ABROAD PROGRAM

If students identify a program that is not approved but it meets a unique need, then there is a multi-step process in place to submit a petition application for a non-approved program.

If students enroll in and participate on a non-approved program, they will not maintain university enrollment, will forego any institutional, state, and/or federal financial aid that is disbursed through the Office of Student Financial Aid, and risk their courses and credits not coming back as approved study abroad credits processed by the Office of the Registrar. Instead, transfer credit would need to be requested through the Office of Undergraduate Admissions, and they have the discretion to accept/deny requests.

Important note: The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has its own petition process; all LAS students should email las-studyabroad@illinois.edu for instructions.

Process

In order to complete the application for approval online, email iage@illinois.edu with a brief summary about the details of your petition program and an Education Abroad Coordinator will be in touch about starting an IAGE By Petition Only application. You will be asked to submit several requirements including but not limited to a review of the proposed program, essay questions, approval by your academic advisor, copy of your application to the host university/program sponsor, photocopy of your passport, and an official transcript. Your academic advisor and/or responsible College Dean will need to submit an online recommendation after a thorough discussion of your study abroad plans, during which you will explain how the alternative programs available to you do not adequately meet your interests and goals. The application will also need to meet the approval of the Office of the Registrar. Approval to participate on the program is not guaranteed.

Note: To ensure that we properly review your application materials and are able to submit those materials to your host university/program sponsor by their deadline, you must turn in all application materials and supporting documents to the Illinois Abroad and Global Exchange by the final deadline or at least one month before the host university/program sponsor deadline, whichever date is earlier.

Once you have completed your online application, your application will need to go through several channels of approval: the Office of the Registrar will ensure the program meets their criteria for accreditation purposes; International Safety and Security will need to vet the program and location for safety and security purposes; Your academic advisor will need to review and approve the program in regards to academic quality and fit for your major; an IAGE Education Abroad Coordinator will ensure there are no alternative programs that fit with the goals you have for the program. If one or more of these approval guidelines are not met, your program will not be approved. However, your application can always be transferred to a different study abroad program, and any additional systems fees will be waived.
You will learn of your application status within one month of the deadline and will be notified of a series of follow-up meetings and paperwork. Your host university/program sponsor will notify you directly of your acceptance or denial to their program.

If your petition program is approved, plan to take the mandatory Global Perspectives course (LAS 291/292). More information can be found on the education abroad website.
